Athletic success must be achieved without compromising academic integrity.~~

The achievements on the field, on the court, and in the classroom will continue because university of Akron student-athletes and coaches share in the commitment that the tradition be maintained. An extremely important part of the commitment is the understanding that university of Akron varsity athletes are first and foremost students. As such, each student-athlete has the responsibility to fulfill clear expectations.

These include:

- (1) Understanding that earning a degree is the primary goal of the student.
- (2) Meeting regularly with faculty advisors and deans of the respective undergraduate colleges.
- (3) Meeting all academic responsibilities, including regular class attendance and the completion of all assignments in a timely manner.
- (4) Complying with all rules and regulations of the NCAA, the MAC and the university; understanding that it is each student's responsibility to be fully aware of the rules and regulations.
- (5) Striving to be involved as a full-fledged member of the university community and making a strong effort to derive as much as possible from the educational experience. This includes establishing open and mature relationships with faculty and the student body at large.

- (6) Understanding the support resources that are available in the athletic department's academic advising office and the university; assuming the responsibility to seek help when it is needed.
- (7) Understanding that the assumption of personal responsibility is at the heart of the educational experience. All student-athletes should constantly be aware that they represent the university, the athletic department and their team. Upper-class student-athletes should consciously strive to serve as exemplary role models for new student-athletes.

- (8) Making a total commitment to academic integrity

Students are admitted free to all regular season home intercollegiate contests with a current valid id.

Code of Ethics:

Student-athletes are expected to conduct themselves with integrity, sportsmanship, honesty, pride, and humility.

The purpose of intercollegiate athletics is to provide an opportunity for student-athletes to develop their potential as a skilled athlete in an educational setting.

The University of Akron has a highly visible and successful division I NCAA and MAC intercollegiate program. The student-athletes public exposure in the competitive arena and the media place them among the most visible groups in the university community, the city of Akron, Summit County, and the state of Ohio. What they do and the way they do it is often highlighted, placing them in a public position, which requires exemplary behavior.

University of Akron student-athletes are totally responsible for their own behavior. They are expected to obey the laws, rules, and regulations of all these "communities." If student-athletes violate these laws, they must be prepared for the penalties that may be imposed through the university student code of conduct.

A student-athletes behavior has a definite impact on the reputation of the athletic department and on the attitude that the surrounding communities have toward student-athletes in general.

The conduct of the student-athletes will be closely scrutinized as they sit in the classroom, as they compete on-campus, as they travel, and as they compete off-campus. Student-athletes will be looked upon as role models, particularly by young children, and it is important that their personal conduct be above reproach at all times.

(B) Ethical conduct.

All student-athletes shall deport themselves with honesty and sportsmanship at all times so that intercollegiate athletics as a whole, the university of Akron and they, as individuals, shall represent the honor and dignity of fair play and the generally recognized high standards associated with wholesome competitive sports.

A student-athlete who is found to have engaged in unethical conduct shall be ineligible for intercollegiate competition in all sports. Unethical conduct consists of, but is not limited to:

- (1) Fraudulence in connection with entrance or placement examinations;
- (2) Engaging in any athletics competition under an assumed name or with intent otherwise to deceive;
- (3) Dishonesty in evading or violating NCAA regulations;
- (4) Knowingly furnishing the NCAA or the individual's institution false or misleading information concerning the student's involvement in or knowledge of a violation of NCAA regulations.

(C) Complimentary tickets - varsity athletes.

Prior to each contest, the competing student-athlete must designate the names of family members, relatives or fellow students through a pass list provided by the coaching staff. Under NCAA regulations, no more than one of the four complimentary admissions available to the student-athlete may be provided to anyone other than family members, relatives, or fellow students (i.e., a “wild-card” admission). A fellow student is defined as anyone attending a four-year collegiate institution.

In addition to a student-athlete’s own family members, relatives, or fellow students, specific family members or relatives of a teammate are permitted to use the student-athlete’s complimentary admissions if so designated. Teammates may not utilize another student-athlete’s one “wild-card” admission (that is, a person other than a family member, relative, or fellow student).

Designees of the student-athlete should report to the designated player pass gate with proper identification to gain admission. Failure by the student-athlete to sign up for complimentary tickets on the pass list prior to the contest will result in their guests having to purchase tickets.

Under no circumstances will complimentary tickets be issued to student-athletes.

(D) Agents.

An individual shall be ineligible for participation in an intercollegiate sport if he/she ever has agreed (orally or in writing) to be represented by an agent for the purpose of marketing his/her athletic ability or reputation in that sport. Further, an individual shall be ineligible for intercollegiate competition if he/she enters into a verbal or written agreement with an agent for future professional sports negotiations that are to take place after the individual has completed his/her eligibility in that sport.

Likewise, an individual shall be ineligible if he/she (or his/her relatives or friends) accepts transportation or other benefits from any person who wishes to represent the individual in the marketing of his/her athletic ability.

(E) Professional sports counseling panel.

To enable student-athletes to resolve the complexities of professional contracts and the regulation of agents, the university of Akron has formed a professional sports counseling panel. This group functions under the provisions of NCAA bylaw (12.3.4) and is intended to assist student-athletes in making decisions regarding professional contracts, provide a realistic appraisal of his/her potential for becoming a professional athlete, and regulate activity of agents and professional teams.

All bills received from providers of service (doctor, hospitals) that relate to an injury must be submitted to the student's or his/her parent's insurance company first.
- (3) In the event a balance remains after the insurance company has made full payment, the bill must be submitted with the remaining balance and copies of any insurance company payments to the athletic business office.
