

The University of Akron Hazing Prevention Policy

The University of Akron prohibits hazing as defined by Ohio Revised Code 2903.31 and the University Code of Student Conduct. The University will investigate and respond to all reports of hazing. Under the Ohio Revised Code hazing is defined as “doing any act or coercing another, including the victim, to do any act of initiation into any student or other organization or any act to continue or reinstate membership in or affiliation with any student or other organization that causes or creates a substantial risk of causing mental or physical harm to any person, including coercing another to consume alcohol or a drug of abuse, as defined in section 3719.011 of the Revised Code.”

Application:

This Policy applies to University of Akron students, student organizations, or any other recognizable group, team, or association of students, and employees. This Policy also applies to volunteers acting in an official capacity that advise or coach students and/or student organizations and who have direct contact with students. Behavior on and off campus is covered under this Policy.

Potential sanctions:

Hazing is a serious offense of the Code of Student Conduct and is subject to the full range of sanctions for individuals and organizations under the Code (reprimand, disciplinary probation, deactivation, suspension, and dismissal). In addition, other educational activities may be required as conditions of the sanction. The University has the right to act regardless of any sanctions imposed on a student organization by an external governing body. Employees and volunteers who haze, permit hazing or fail to report hazing are subject to discipline, up to and including termination.

Enforcement:

The Department of Student Conduct and Community Affairs is responsible for investigating allegations of hazing involving students and student organizations.

Any allegations regarding employees or volunteers under this policy will be forwarded to Human Resources for appropriate review and action.

Criminal investigations resulting from a report to law enforcement will be handled by the appropriate law enforcement agency.

Hazing does not include reasonable and customary athletic, law enforcement or military training, contests, competitions, or events that are explicitly relevant to the mission of the student organization or any other recognizable groups, teams, or associations of students.

Expressed or implied consent of the victim to hazing is not a defense and does not prevent the behavior from being considered a violation of this rule. It is a violation of this rule for any individual, knowing that hazing has been or is being committed, to fail to report such information to law enforcement authorities or to the department of student conduct and community standards.

Reporting:

Campus safety is our top priority, and we protect and support the health and well-being of the community following reports of misconduct. The University depends on community members to identify and report behaviors of concern so the University can provide distressed students and employees with appropriate support services and resources. If you see any concerning behavior or suspicious behavior that may constitute hazing under the Code of Student Conduct or the Ohio Revised Code, you are required to report the behavior. The University is committed to reviewing all reports of hazing. Anonymous reports are accepted; however, the ability to obtain additional information may be compromised and the ability to investigate anonymous reports may be limited.

Employees and volunteers are required to report knowledge of hazing as defined under this Ohio Revised Code or the Code of Student Conduct. Failure to make a timely report may result in appropriate discipline. Under Ohio Revised Code 2903.311 failing to report hazing may be a criminal violation.

University Reports:

The University will maintain a report of all violations of the University's hazing policy. The report will be updated biannually on January 1 and August 1 of each year and will post the updated report on the University's website.

Training:

The University requires that all students, employees, and volunteers complete the hazing awareness and prevention training. Hazing awareness and prevention resources are available through online University training systems. Students, staff, and volunteers will not be permitted to be members of recognized student organizations, club sports and all University of Akron athletic teams if they fail to complete the required training.
